

W-G Federal Credit Union To Merge With RTN Federal Credit Union By November

Oct 21, 2015

Reprints | Print

Members of Worcester-based W-G Federal Credit Union voted on Oct. 15 to approve a merger with RTN Federal Credit Union, headquartered in Waltham. The merger will take effect Nov. 1.

The merger will give members the opportunity to choose from a wider offering of financial products and services, including an expanded choice of mortgage and loan products and a larger ATM network.

"We are excited to offer members lower fees, more branch access, and greater convenience with the same individualized attention," W-G Treasurer and CEO Deborah Beando said in a statement. "Staff and leadership are committed to a seamless transition so that members can conduct business as usual."

"This is an exciting opportunity to expand RTN's branch footprint, and expand and diversify our membership base," RTN Treasurer and CEO Richard Wright said in a statement. "Our new members in Worcester will continue to be served by familiar staff, and enjoy enhancements to the branch and expanded services in the coming months. We look forward to a secure and promising future for our members, employees and affiliates."

Related articles:

- Community Good Works
- Community Good Works
- Scituate Federal Savings, S-Bank To Merge
- Cecil Group Merges With Maine Firm